(From the "Straits Times," July 27, 1868. Some time ago we had occasion to remark upon the progress that Literature as represented by the Press had made and was making in the East, and our attention has again been called to the subject by the receipt of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the know ledge of our readers. We allude to Notes and Queries on thina and Japan, published monthly by Mr Saint, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication is well printed on good paper, and in size and shape is very like its well-known namesake or prototype at home, and is equally mine containing very curious and useful information regarding the language, literature, history, manuers and customs of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japanese. It says a good deal for the extent and stability of the footing of Europeans in China, that such a publication as this should be established and conducted with apparently successful vigour. The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success. we commend it to the attention and support of our readers.

(From the "London Examiner," May

16, 1868.) This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports of China and Japan"] is intended as a guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and as a book of reference for mercautile men generally. It contains an account, historical and political, of all the open ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macao. It has been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. B. Dennys; and the elaborate maps and plans, with which the work abounds, considerably enhance its value. * * *

We have thus given in outline some of the more prominent portions of the chapter devoted to Canton, as a specimen of the whole volume. Other chapters treating of Macao, Formosa, Ningpo, Shanghae, and the remaind r of the treaty ports, we can only enumerate. The pages describing Peking, the capital, are so interesting, and contain so much that is new to European readers respecting its history, public buildings, and general characteristics, that we would fain transfer them to our columns. A complete and intelligible plan of the Imperial City and neighbourhood, gives us an accurate notion of the relative position of its divisions, streets, and places. In the introductory chapter to the notices of the Treaty Forts of Japan will be found a succinct history of that Empire, together with remarks on its government, geography and limits, which will be found particularly interesting as throwing a considerable light on a part of the world so long entirely, and still comparatively, unknown to Europeans.

The descriptions of Nagasaki, Yedo, Yokohama, and the other Treaty Ports of Japan, are as elaborate and entertaining as those of the Chinese ports. A copious index and a useful appendix containing many hints and much appropriate advice to travellers and others, is also included in the volume. The entire work affords a vast amount of information, pleasantly written and we doubt not will be perused with interest by many who will never visit the - Kastern sels,

THE CHINA MAIL.

HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 21, 1868.

In introducing the Building Ordinance for a second reading, Sir Richard Mac-Donnell remarked that "it had been drafted upon suggestions by the Surveyor General; but he feared there existed a good deal of misunderstanding as to the objects kept in view by those who framed its provisions." His Excellency was right. At least we may presume that the real object intended, and that which is but too unfortunately obvious on the surface, are separate and distinct. From the construction of the bill in its present state there has arisen a widespread belief, not merely in professional, but in general, circles that the object kept in view by the framers was to monopolize the whole architectural private practice of the Colony, and by means of the act to squeeze the pockets of the building owners. We do not for an instant support this view, but ill-natured comment is sure to arise when a Surveyor General interested in private practice is the ostensible framer of an ordinance which it is impossible to deny would certainly empower himself and the officers of his department to make use of it in this way.

Still following His Excellency's remarks we observe him reported to have

ordinance under discussion which was new. Upon this we would merely observe that there are 62 sections in the new ordinance while the former one contained only 20, so that there is necessarily much which is new. We reserve, however, details of this nature for future discussion and pass on to the observation that "there was one point bearing upon the walls of houses being built of a proper thickness; and that thickness was here regulated as a matter of safety. One house had fallen three times, on the other side of the harbor, by which nine lives were lost." Now as regards the thickness of the walls we are in a position to state that they are much thicker than necessary—the Metropolitan Act being our authority. But as regards the house alluded to as having fallen we would diffidently beg to enquire whether His Excellency referred to the Chinese house on the Point near the Police Station? and if so, whether the admirably constructed praya had anything to do with its downfall on any of the three occasions? Further details respecting this particular case would be eminently interesting in an architectural point of view. But, why did His Excellency go to Kowloong for an example? Are there none nearer the Peak—the Harbor Master's office for instance. The walls of that building are, we believe, severely correct as to measurement, but it is daily threatened with the fate which "pointed the moral" in His Excellency's remarks!

His Excellency considers that the provisions of the Ordinance are not so "stringent" as those of the Metropolitan Act, But this assertion is met by a grave shake of the head on the part of those best fitted to judge, and those who like ourselves have been at the pains to compare the two acts. It is most necessary that the minds of the Committee appointed to remodel the Ordinance should be disabused of this belief. We merely invite them to carefully compare the two documents. To enter into details here is, from want of space, impossible, so we pass on to some of the special points alluded to by His Excellency He mentions the "fact" that many houses in the Colony are unsafe "owing
